Brief Description:

One-story, painted, scored brick, commercial building with a flat parapet and concrete cap. Two pavilions project slightly at the ends. A sawtooth cornice decorated all three planes. A modern garage door has been inserted in the facades (S) of the pavilions, apparently replacing the original garage doors, as the long, steel lintels remain. In the center section, a stucco signboard is just below the cornice and a center-leaf entry is flanked by a large, plate-glass window. The steel lintels have all been bricked in.
