Brief Description:

One-story, aluminum siding with a cross-gable roof of asphalt shingles on a brick foundation. The house is on a corner lot and has two façade (N & W). The W façade is an L-front with a pedimented gable projection from the R (W) side and a gable extension on the L creates a porch supported by boxed columns. Under the porch, the 9-light Craftsman with 4-light transom door is to the far right. To the far L are paired 9/1 Craftsman-type windows. Outside the porch, is a 3-part, Craftsman-type 9/1 wood-frame window. The paired, metal-frame windows in the gable end appear to have been inserted and are not replacements. The W façade has 4 asymmetrical bays with 2 paired and 1 single, 9/1 Craftsman-type wood-frame window. These windows flank a gabled portico with a segmental arch soffit resting on boxed columns, which shelters a multi-light and panelled Craftsman wood door with 4-light transom.
